The Junior Auxiliary of the Glendale Music club held a business and social meeting last night at the home of Miss Josephine Booth, 123 West Lomita avenue.

Marjorie Yarrick was elected chairman of the entertainment committee and Laura Baldwin, chairman of the refreshment committee.

Brahm Van den Berg, Carrie Jacobs Bond and Vincent Jones were elected as honorary members of the Junior Auxiliary.

Announcement was made of the orchestra meeting to be held at the high school Monday, September 12, at 7:15 p. m., and the chorus meeting the same place at 8:15 p. m.

The members of the auxiliary were invited to attend a recital to be given by pupils of Brahm Van den Berg at the Majestic theatre building, Los Angeles, September 7.

Program Is Presented

Following the business meeting a program was given, which included the following: Group of songs by Winifred Parker, accompanied at the piano by Constance Domslar; group of songs by Florence Rattray, accompanied at the piano by Winifred Parker; group of violin solos by Glenn Hurd, accompanied at the piano by Veda Knapp; monologues by Mrs. L. N. Hagood.

After the program the young people amused themselves by playing various games and dancing, after which refreshments were served. There were about thirty members of the auxiliary present at the meeting.

GEORGE S. MAY TO RETURN

R. Roberts of 410 West Maple street is in receipt of a letter from George S. May, former resident of this city but who has been living at Toledo, Ohio, for the past three months, telling that he and his family have heard the call of southern California and will be back in Glendale within the next few weeks. "We are coming to Glendale as fast as we can," was Mr. May's closing statement. When they left here the latter part of spring Mr. and Mrs. May declared that they were going to make their permanent home in Toledo, but like hundreds of others they "came back."

LEAVE FOR ILLINOIS VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Olmstead, who have been living at 911 East Lomita avenue for the past few months, left Glendale this morning for Genoa, Illinois, which is their former home town. After spending several months visiting old friends throughout various parts of the east they will return to Glendale to locate permanently. Mr. Olmstead is at present having a modern six-room home constructed at the lot on the corner of California avenue and Belmont street.

ODD FELLOWS ON VISIT

About seventy members of the local lodge of Odd Fellows are planning to leave Glendale at 7 o'clock this evening for San Fernando, where they will attend the regular weekly meeting of the lodge of that city. A number of Glendale candidates for the order will be among the local delegation, as they are to receive the first degree of the lodge at the session. The officers of the San Fernando Odd Fellows will put on the initiatory work of the evening.

MRS. ROGERS IS HOSTESS

Mrs. F. J. Rogers of 525 North Kenwood street entertained at a bridge party yesterday afternoon. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the dainty refreshments of ice-cream and cakes. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Rogers' hospitality were: Mrs. Harry Powers, Mrs. Charles Carroll, Mrs. Heloise Bondeaux, Mrs. Charles Meadows, Mrs. Gertrude Walker, Mrs. Frank George and Mrs. Albert Draper.

NEW LIGHTS GIVEN TRYOUT

Employees of the public service department are busy today installing new types of Mazda lamps on the ornamental light standards along several blocks on East Broadway. The purpose of the change is that of an experiment, as it is claimed that the new lights will give more concentrated illumination and also have longer life. The experiment will take several months before it will be completed.

L. C. BRAND AGREES TO PURCHASE $30,000 GRAND VIEW WATER BONDS

Glendale Man Comes to Assistance of District And Action is Approved by Members of Council

SALE OF $30,000 SIX PER CENT BONDS of municipal improvement district No. 4 to L. C. Brand was approved last night by the City Council after receiving a report from retiring City Manager T. W. Watson, as follows:

"We wrote L. C. Brand in regard to these bonds on June 8 stating that we realized they would not sell readily at par on the market, but expressed the hope that he might be able to assist in the disposing of them.

"At the request of the committee from the Grand View Improvement association we conferred with Mr. Brand in regard to this matter last Saturday afternoon, explaining in detail that the funds were to be used for the installation of a water distributing system in the Grand View district in accordance with the wishes of the voters and proprety holders of that section who are very anxious to have the matter proceed without delay.

"Mr. Brand agreed to purchase the bonds at par and accrued interest subject to approval of legal proceedings by Attorney John C. Thomson, of New York City."

City Officials Investigate Purchase Of Kelly Water Co. System For Service In Viola District

Further investigation by the city manager on the advisability of purchasing the Kelly Water company system and the furnishing of water to the Viola street district which annexed to Glendale August 2, was ordered by the city council last night after hearing the following report from T. W. Watson, retiring city manager:

"One of the principal objects the people of this district had in voting favorably upon the proposition to annex the city of Glendale, was the securing of city water service. This district is now served by what is generally known as the Kelly Water system. In this connection we have received a letter dated the 26th inst., from W. W. Lee, as trustee of the Kelly Water system, as follows:

" 'Referring to the district served by what was formerly known as the Kelly Water company, and recently annexed by vote to Glendale:

" 'We are desirous of affecting a sale of this system to the city of Glendale, and in order that we may reach an understanding regarding it, we will be glad to confer with appraisers from the city, or in any other manner you may suggest for the purpose of ascertaining the value of the property and maning a transfer to the city.'

"For your information we have had prepared, and submit herewith plot of Viola street annexation district, indicating thereon the Kelly Water system, and the district served thereby. There are fifty-three consumers being served by this system, thirty-seven of which are now within the city limits of Glendale.

With the extension of trunk line on Pacific avenue from Doran to Stocker streets as proposed under plans for the laying of service mains from the proceeds of the $100,000 bond issue as set forth in our report of the 25th inst., the city will be in a position to take on this extra service in this section without detriment to the consumers now being served in that vicinity. In fact, with a few minor additional installations the Kelly Water system will fit in nicely with the distributing system in that section and the 6-inch service main of that system on Central avenue extending south from Kenneth Road when connected up with the city main on Kenneth Road will serve as an additional service main for the system in that section."

CHINESE REPUBLICAN LEADER TAKES CITY OF YOCHOW

HANKOW, China, Aug. 31.—General Wu Pei Fu, Chinese republican leader, has captured Yochow without bloodshed according to word reaching here today. The city was "bombarded" with blank shells from a warship while the troops entered. Wu Pei Gu now proposes calling a national conference of representatives of all provinces to plan unification of the republic of China under one government. The insurgents apparently badly defeated, appear to welcome peace.

FIRMNESS OF OILS FEATURE EARLY TRADING TODAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The firmness of oils was the feature of early trading on the stock market today. There was little change manifest in prices during the first hour. Mexican Petroleum in early deals touched Tuesday's high of 101¼. Atlantic Gulf made an early high above 25. Pierce-Arrow touched 12, against a recent low around 9½, and Studebaker reported early sales above 70, up about six points from last week's low. Steel common was off ⅛ at 75¼. General Electric had little trouble in holding above 124. There was little change in rails.

IRELAND IS AGAIN ON VERGE OF CIVIL WARFARE

DUBLIN, Aug. 31.—The killing of Catholics in Belfast and the diplomatic deadlock brought Ireland to the verge of a renewal of civil war. Orders were sent out to all men of the Irish republican army to be ready for instant mobilization. Many wanted by the British authorities whose arrest would instantly follow a break in the truce, were slipping away, headed for secret Sinn Fein strongholds in the hills. Everywhere preparations were quietly, but rapidly, being made for war, following reports from Belfast of the carnage in the Ulster capital, where over sixty casualties have resulted from the internecine warfare. "An early termination of the truce is threatened," says the official Sinn Fein announcement. The strictest secrecy was maintained regarding the time of dispatch of the Dail Eireann's reply to the latest note from Lloyd George.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT AT HIGH SCHOOL STRENGTHENED

New Instructors Secured and Additional Classes Will Be Offered Students

With an increased teaching force available, the work in the music department of the Glendale Union high school will be considerably broadened during the coming year, according to Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, head of the department. A few of the changes and additions in the work and personnel of the department that will be in effect when the fall semester opens on September 12, are as follows:

Earl Meeker, a singer and voice teacher of Los Angeles, has been obtained to conduct classes in voice and diction, and also to have charge of both the boys' and girls' glee clubs. In addition to this, Mr. Meeker will organize and instruct large classes of mixed choruses, each to have approximately 100 voices.

Miss Pansy Sheldon is to have classes in sight reading, appreciation and the history of music. Miss Sheldon comes to Glendale well recommended as a music teacher and is declared to have had unusual musical preparation and successful experience in public school work.

In Charge Of Orchestra

Mrs. Gibson, who has had extensive study of piano music with some noted artists, will again be in charge of the orchestra, and will also conduct classes in harmony and piano. During the summer vacation Mrs. Gibson has been studying piano technic under Brahm van der Berg, whom she considers an authority on this subject. Other artists with whom she has studied are Emil Liebling, William H. Sherwood and Otto Kar Malik, the latter being a pupil of Leschetizky.

Piano classes will be an innovation in the local high school this year and, according to Mrs. Gibson, it is a wonderful advance in the teaching of music in public schools. High school piano classes, which have been successfully conducted in various high schools throughout the country during the past few years, affords many young people an opportunity to lay a foundation for a thorough musical education which they could otherwise obtain.

Announcement has been made that credit for outside study under private instruction will be granted, as heretofore.

HOLD FIRST ANNUAL PICNIC

The first annual picnic of Mary Jane Gillette Tent and N. P. Banks Camp, Sons of Veterans, took place yesterday afternoon and night and proved to be a most decided success. Tables for the picnic supper were ready at 7 o'clock in a secluded place at the side of a hill in Brookside Park, Pasadena. Robert Danner as chef deluxe, had a prominent place at the stove frying weiners. Mrs. Queen Danner and Mrs. Susie Peck made the coffee and were assisted in serving by Mrs. Alma Dutton. There were just fifty seated at the tables, which were loaded with all the good things of a picnic supper.

RECEPTION TO BE GIVEN

All of the young people of the First Christian church of this city have been invited to the reception and shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Learned, to be held Friday night at the home of Mrs. Eva M. Hutton of 326 East Colorado boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. Learned, recently married, have been associated with the local Christian church since its organization. Mrs. Learned, who was formerly Miss Grace Utter, is the daughter of Rev. J. E. Utter, the founder of the church, while her husband has been superintendent of the Sunday school for several years.

They left Chicago last week, and it is expected that they will reach this city about October 1. Their return trip will be made by way of Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

BUILDING PERMITS FOR AUGUST PASS $500,000 MARK

Total at Noon Is $548,095 and Amount so Far for Year Reaches $2,867,019

With approximately $550,000 in permits already issued this month, Glendale's August building mark establishes a record for the city and, what is believed by building authorities as a world's record for cities of similar size. The best previous mark was that of August of last year, when slightly more than $517,000 was the extent of building. This month's mark stood at $548,095 shortly before noon this morning, and it is probable that several more permits will be taken out before Building Inspector F. A. Marek's office is closed this evening.

Heading the list of today's permits is a $30,000 greenhouse, to be erected by the Glendale Davis company of North San Fernando road. This concern, which is the only one of its kind in southern California, has erected two almost similar structures during the past year.

Another "five figure" permit issued this morning was that for the erection of a two story store and apartment building at the corner of Doran street and Brand boulevard. A complete announcement and description of this proposed business block, which is being built by M. M. Gillespie, was given in yesterday's issue of The Glendale Evening News.

The grand total so far for 1921, which is several months ahead of last year's mark, now stands at $2,867,019.

Following is a list of the permits issued Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning:

Davis Glendale Co., greenhouse, N. San Fernando Road	$ 30,000
M. M. Gillispie, store and apartment bldg., Doran and Brand	22,000
C. D. Gulick, eight room residence, 1237 S. Central	6,600

TWO BEFORE BREAKFAST

E. F. Sanders, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is a regular "go-getter" when it comes to new members. He got two before breakfast this morning, then hurried over to Los Angeles to get speakers and film stars for the big rally to be held next Tuesday night at the exposition tent when the whole town will be invited to attend the opening fall meeting of the Chamber.

RETURNING TO GLENDALE

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Clewett of 526 East Windsor road that they are at Chico, Calif., on their return trip to Glendale, after having spent four pleasant weeks touring in Oregon. They are expected home within the next few days.

Loving Cups Will Be Awarded Three Displays At Show

Loving cups will be awarded the following exhibitors at the Greater Glendale Merchants' Exposition according to the decision of judges from Pomona, Pasadena and Los Angeles who viewed the displays yesterday afternoon.

The most attractive booth, Glendale Electric Co., Naudain Bros., proprietors. As usual with all winning exhibits, L. W. Chobe designed the model bungalow.

The most unique exhibit, Dr. C. Stuart Steelman, optometrist, who has a most comprehensive display of equipment used in optical refraction.

The most novel booth, Glendale Sheet Metal Works, with its galvanized iron man attracting much attention.

INVASION OF TUJUNGA PEOPLE AT BUSINESS MEN'S EXPOSITION HEARS STORY 'BUY IN GLENDALE'

Visitors Fast Learning This City Is Best Trade Center; More Than 4000 Persons Present At Show Yesterday; New Features Tonight

By GIL A. COWAN

TODAY IS TUJUNGA DAY at the Greater Glendale Merchants' Exposition. The good people of the green Verdugo foothills are coming here by the hundreds this afternoon and jamming the big tent on the high school athletic field to its capacity. They are learning that this city is their trade center, they are being royally entertained and they are going home to spread the good word, "Buy in Glendale."

If the program of last evening is any criterion to those to come the balance of the week, there will hardly be breathing space left in the great show. More than 4000 people saw the exhibits yesterday and all attendance records in the history of the Pacific Coast Exposition company stand to be shattered, according to H. Elmo La Breque, director general.

So diversified is the impromptu entertainment that it is difficult to describe, but to declare it is a dollar show for a dime is complimenting the talent, the management and the exhibitors who have made the exposition possible. The Misses Davis and Ingle, Fred Jamison, dainty Dot Howard and other stars, not to forget the Exposition Versatile Five, keep the crowd on tiptoe with their latest popular songs. Emil Heinz, a grand opera singer now in business in Los Angeles, sang an aria from "Pagliacci" last night—a rare treat, indeed, and highly appreciated.

Own Your Home!

R. D. Horton, salesmanager for the F. P. Newport company, subdividers of Verdugo Woodlands, spoke last night on the advantages of owning a home here and his masterful oratory swayed the audience to such an extent that when he asked all of those who would boost for "50,000 by 1925" everyone in the great tent raised their hands and cheered him to the echo.

The speaker briefly told the history of the valley in which Glendale is located, how it was settled by the Verdugo family under a Spanish grant and why it was the ideal home place in America. He dwelt on the beauties of the mountains, the living streams which furnish water for Glendale all year 'round and the possibilities for investment here. It was an inspiring talk and Mr. Horton put the Newport people and Verdugo Woodlands on the map in the minds of many people who had not realized this beautiful foothill residential section lies within the corporate limits of Glendale—and is proud of the fact.

Proves Pleasing Surprise

One of the most pleasing surprises of the programs so far was the international style display presented by H. S. Webb & Co. last night. A complete account of this part of the

PERKY PEGGY, GAY AND POPULAR LITTLE FROCKS, PUT ON DISPLAY

Revue By H. S. Webb Co. At Glendale Merchants' Exposition Pleases; European Styles Shown

By MARGARET SHARPE

TUESDAY WAS "PERKY PEGGY" DAY at the Greater Glendale Merchants' Exposition tent. There may have been a few people in Glendale last week who did not know about the "Perky Peggy" dresses, but after Tuesday night's fashion revue there is not one person who has not fallen in love with the gay little frocks. H. S. Webb, whose dry goods store has exclusive sale of this line, was besieged all evening by enthusiastic ladies who begged him to "Save that one for me. I'll be down first thing in the morning." A number of men purchased the dresses for their wives and daughters before the models had a chance to take them off.

I might tell you something about the little "Perky Peggys," though to tell you all their good points would take up too much space. In the first space Goldson Bros., who are the manufacturers, claim to have introduced the Japanese crepe house dress to the women of America. Japanese crepe, as you know, is the most popular material on the market for house frocks, as it needs no starch, or hard laundering and can be worn until its style is so obsolete it has to be thrown away, yet the material is as strong as when it was new. The chief trouble has always been to get desirable shades in the crepes, as the native factories were used to turning out only certain patterns. Today Goldson Bros. have engaged the entire output of one factory and have introduced the only checked Japanese crepe on the market. The gay checks have created quite a sensation in clothing shops and the little dresses cannot be turned out fast enough to supply the demand.

Starting last September with two machines in the Los Angeles factory, today one hundred machines cannot turn out the frocks fast enough to keep up with orders. It takes the Japanese factory nine months to complete a bolt of the crepe. The material is then shipped to Los Angeles, where the garments it is to make have been purchased weeks ahead. No wonder it is hard to get the dresses. And no wonder every woman wants to have them, once she has seen them.

There are so many different styles in the "Perky Peggys" that it is almost impossible to choose between them. Among the prettiest models shown Tuesday night were the long waisted effects in two tones, with cute little pockets and buster-brown collars. The dress that received the most applause was a pink and white checked crepe with panel effect in the overskirt, outlined in black wool. There was a very unique design in

Sherrod's Specialty Shop Makes Display Interesting Women

Sherrod's Specialty Shop has taken advantage of the opportunity offered by the Merchants' exposition to display to Glendale women of discriminating taste the very choicest of silk and lace combinations in lingerie. The gowns displayed Monday night included several French models fashioned from the richest crepe de chine, so heavy in quality that it is even more durable than pussy-willow. Among the sets worn by their living models Monday night were some of the newest styles with inserts of piquoted georgette trimmed with tiny rosebuds and bows of two-toned ribbon. The sleeveless gowns with wide bands of real filet lace were among the most elaborate creations.

The negligees shown included some pretty, comfortable robes of pink and blue corduroy richly embroidered in colored wool. An ideal garment for the coming cold winter nights.

The display Tuesday afternoon featured the daintiest net blouses you ever saw. These are designed especially for wear under the jumper dresses that are so much in vogue and are trimmed with tucks, shirring and filet and Irish lace.

Tuesday night Miss Novake, the model, displayed pink satin "Billie Burkes" and the most comfortable cool looking pongee pajamas. Pongee is one of the most popular materials this season for undergarments, too, as it is so durable and practical for every day wear.

Today Sherrod's will display their line of kiddies' clothes, featuring white and colored rompers.

When she entered the house the lights were all thrown on and she found the members of her class and a group of Los Angeles friends assembled to greet her. There were about fifty present in all. Games provided diversion for the evening, during which ice cream, cake and lemonade were served. A most delightful evening was enjoyed.

GIVES THAT QUEER FEELING

RIVERSIDE—Have you tried "Loco weed" in your moonshine? They say it makes the world feel queer. And Sheriff Wilson and District Attorney Kelley have a theory that it has been done. Tracing the origin of a peculiarly vicious concoction known to have been dispensed in the vicinity, they conducted several boot-legging raids. In the rear of one of the establishments they found two patches of marijuana or "loco weed" just ready for harvest. The stuff was confiscated and will be used in the trials of the proprietors of the place when they are arraigned.

Fashion Display Is Pleasing Crowds at Merchants' Exposition

the embroidery motifs used on the plain materials and the prettiest patterns in belts and inserts, the things that make these little dresses so very "different."

Almost Every Shade

Goldson Bros. are able to give their customers almost every shade in the crepes. The brighter colors were worn by the models as they would best display the attractive cut of the garments. A tomato colored frock was trimmed in bands of white, a brown and white check was combined with plain brown and embroidered in black. A rose colored dress was trimmed with rose and white checked crepe and the pockets were adorned with cleverly constructed ornaments, also made of gay crepe with bright touches of wool embroidery. One can't describe the dear little dresses and do them justice, but the descriptions are unnecessary as nearly all the people in Glendale turned out Tuesday night to look at them.

Mr. Goldson, himself, came out in the afternoon and evening to oversee the display, and was gratified at the reception given his goods. Mr. Webb, who has just been able to get his order for the garments filled, was a very proud person by the close of the evening. It is odd how the simple little dresses take folks by storm. Perhaps the men's enthusiasm is increased because someone has whispered to them that the dresses can be purchased for so very little, though even the young bachelors admit when questioned that "she" looks sweetest when she is wearing a simple little wash frock.

Show European Costumes

Webb's Dry Goods store presented the people with a pretty "Revue of styles of the Nations," following the show of the "Perky Peggys." The models were loath to give up the pretty crepe frocks for their European costumes, but never-the-less gave a nice imitation of the manners and dress of six different countries.

Viola Dolan as Holland was received with much applause. Aellah Cavanaugh skipped out as the gay Irish lass and a dainty little madamoiselle from "gay Par-ee" sang an animated chorus dressed in the peasant costume of Alsace Lorraine. The lady from the English province was stately and cold, with her long skirt and modest bonnet. Miss Davis made a stunning Chinese woman and Miss Ingle as an Italian signorina, singing a gipsy love song, was very charming.

Following the impersonations Miss Classie Marlowe appeared wearing the loved colors of the U. S. A. with the flags of England and France floating beside her, and advanced gracefully down the runway to the strains of the National anthem. The revue closed with a tableau showing the sister nations grouped about Miss Columbia singing "America."

POMONA'S BUSINESS MEN GAIN IDEAS AT EXPOSITION

Delegation Comes to Glendale Show to Learn How 'Live Ones' Put on Displays

Fifteen Pomona merchants attended the Greater Glendale Merchants' Exposition in company with A. Marvin Greathouse, publicity manager for the Pacific Coast Exposition company. They paid Director General H. Elmo LaBreque high compliment for the successful way in which he conducts such shows and expressed themselves willing to cooperate in making the Pomona exposition equal to that in Glendale.

Several of the merchants stole ideas and others ate prune pie, but as a crowd they enjoyed themselves thoroughly as did people from a half dozen other cities last night. An Australian who happened into the show almost was overcome with joy to find that he could buy ginger beer—a Sierra Club beverage. It is a very popular drink among the English.

C. E. McPeek Gets Orders

C. E. McPeek, agent for the famous Ideal Arcola hot water house heating system, announces he has received orders for two complete installations as a result of his demonstration at the exposition. He also has complete kitchen and bathroom equipment on display, but his principal feature is house heating by hot water at extremely low cost for fuel. Many visitors are taking advantage of the opportunity and see the heater in action at Mr. McPeek's booth. "Mac" is giving away useful presents with his hints on plumbing and heating, also.

Both Mountains and Lake

Memories of vacation days are floating around the Photo Shop booth at the exposition. When George M. Spears took his vacation two months ago from the shop at 219 East Broadway, he hied up to Big Bear lake and shot a flock of photographs. Then he added a few days of recreation at Laguna Beach and captured some more stuff with the camera. Enlargements of these views in water colors are being sold very reasonably by Mr. Spears and he reports that art lovers are literally inundating him with orders for these beautiful pictures.

Reports Sales of Nash

E. B. Sutton of the Glendale Nash Sales reports the sale of three cars at the exposition so far. Mighty fine results, he thinks, and W. W. Brown of the salesforce has half a hundred prospects. Of course, the Nash display ought to interest people for the artistry which is exhibited there is worthy of anyone's attention.

Demonstrations Are Enjoyed

F. V. Shuck of the Barnes-Shuck Music company is demonstrating both the Haines Ampico player piano and the Behr Brothers piano. Mr. Shuck plays the latter while mechanism operates the former, but both sound alike. Many admirers of things musical were forced to comment on Mr. Shuck's ability to play. But he says they ought to hear Al Barnes, his partner, who writes music, play some of the latest melodies. Sales are brisk, this firm reports.

Displays Bank Bookkeeping

Ernest E. Osgood, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, is at the exposition each afternoon and evening representing that institution which is featuring a demonstration of the bookkeeping system. It is a most business-like exhibit with a typewriting accounting machine rattling merrily on its way.

Fine Furniture Exhibit

Luxury in the last degree is exemplified in the two exhibits by the Page Furniture company. The overstuffed parlor set which occupies an individual booth is really a wonderful display of furniture for Glendale and many local people were surprised to learn that a store here carried such a stock.

Monarch Auto Supply Co.

Fifteen per cent discounts on tires and tubes will be given four lucky people each evening at the exposition by the Monarch Auto Supply company. Lubriko, the new lubricant, and Alemite grease guns also will be given away by this enterprising firm as its share in the $15,000 worth of merchandise and money being distributed this week.

NOTED SINGERS IN CAST

The performance of "The Persian Gardens," to be given by the California Opera company at Verdugo Woodlands Saturday, September 17, for the benefit of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse fund, will have a notable cast of artists and musicians. The roles will be sung by Cavaleiri, soprano; either Nell Lockwood or June Harding, contralto; Ray Gordon, tenor; George Walker, bass. There will be a chorus of picked voices and a coterie of classic dancers.

program will be found in other columns.

And how the crowd did watch to see who got the gifts of gold and merchandise! This feature three times a day is a real attraction worth everybody's time and attendance.

Mr. La Breque as master of ceremonies has a never-endless supply of wit and he keeps the crowds moving from exhibit to exhibit which means so much to the merchants. Robert Cavenagh, his assistant, Harry E. White, treasurer, and other representatives of the exposition company, handle the details of the big show efficiently.

LYDIA CLASS IN SESSION

The regular monthly business meeting and social of the Lydia class of the Presbyterian church was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Leicht, 114 North Adams street. The associate hostesses were Mrs. E. R. Hamilton and Mrs. Elmer Patterson.

The house was prettily decorated in purple and white asters, purple and white being the class colors. There were about twenty-five present and during the afternoon the hostess served dainty refreshments of peach sherbet and cakes. After the business meeting a social time was enjoyed.

NEW GLENDALE RESIDENT

Miss Barbara Zeiher has sold her handsome residence in Curson avenue, Hollywood, and has become a citizen of Glendale, having purchased that classy duplex at 241 and 243 North Louise street, recently built by R. S. Person. Miss Zeiher is delighted with her new possession and glad to be located in Glendale, which she prefers to Hollywood or Chicago, where she formerly lived. She will occupy No. 243 and rent No. 241 to a desirable tenant.

LEAVE FOR AUTO TOUR

Mrs. L. W. Chobe of the Secret Garden rest home, 1101 Sierra avenue, accompanied by her brothers and sister, Frank Muhleman of Pacoima, Randall Muhleman of Cabazon and Mrs. Rose Aushutz of Banning, left yesterday for an auto tour to Lake Tahoe. They will return about September 10.

LOCAL PRODUCT OF FURNITURE FIRM GAINS PRAISE

Russell Company Has Display at Exposition That Wins Approval of Public

L. W. Russell of the Russel Furniture Manufacturing company attends the Greater Glendale Exposition in person to acquaint the public with the product from his factory. Many expressions of surprise are heard when people here learn that the beautiful bedroom, dining room and parlor sets are made right here at home and sold direct from the factory. Speaking on this subject Mr. Russell says:

"Value always has been the outstanding feature of our furniture. Our efficient methods of handling materials and factory operation, together with a keen discrimination in the matter of design and finish, results in fine furniture appropriate for the average home."

In other words, the factory meets local requirements and caters to the taste and pocketbook of people here. "It is the public's opportunity to buy better furniture for less money and we invite everyone to visit our show room and factory," Mr. Russell tells visitors.

F. A. Clarke Electric Co.

Another housefurnishing concern which is getting a large amount of publicity from the exposition is the F. A. Clarke Electric company, with stores in seven southern California cities. Mr. Clarke, who resides here, is in the east, but he is efficiently represented at the show for he appreciates what it means to the merchant. All sorts of appliances are to be found there.

Glendale Hardware Store

The Glendale Hardware store is another firm showing many articles which homemakers will find useful. James Webb and sons are ever present to explain their exhibit to the passing public. It is truly a representative showing of the comprehensive business done by the big store.

New Thoughts On Home Furnishings

By MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

MOODS and modes—how inextricably intertwined! The feminine mood—its name is Legion. The Autumn mode, is it not also Legion? Verily. For each hour of he day, each separate occasion demands its mode—and within the mode lie countless variations of the mood.

Variations, yes, thank goodness. For a woman preserves her individuality as she would her pearly teeth. Each fair creature demands the smart mode that is her self-expression. And she will not be stereotyped.

Self-determination is not to be seized upon by diplomats, to become their exclusive phrase. It has just as vital a meaning to the eternal feminine, and having once perceived it, she is not likely to let it go.

What has Autumn in store for this marvelous modern woman?

In what manner will the intricacies, aye the subtleties of her mood become expressed?

There are fur-collared tailleurs and coats for the out-of-doors. When her desire seeks the open air, the shopping excursion, the long walk, she will resort to these. There are street dresses for the earlier fall, before the weather turns cold. There are many, many pretty costumes for her afternoons, indoors, whether she entertains or seeks amusement in the homes of her friends.

And loveliest of all are the exotic evening dresses, the tremulous, subtle or gayly joyous party frocks. For these happy times she need not consider subdued tints, nor firm practical materials, but can shimmer forth onto the brightly lighted dancing floor, all one gleam of sequins. Perhaps her self-expression will demand the bouffant folds of taffeta, with tight bodice and above it gayly flung bobbed hair. Then again she may elect to stun all beholders with the severity and bold simplicity of black velvet.

This Season's Contribution

Each year a number of smart and quite tailored dresses are designed. The business woman finds her daily costumes amongst these, knowing as she does, that her clothes must be more severe in line and cut, than those worn at home. Such dresses are so very good looking that many of our feminine friends enjoy them, other than those of the office.

Slip-over styles are to dominate they tell us. A straight silhouette will result, although fullness will be introduced in large pleats at the sides over the hips.

For materials poiret twill and tricotine will be favorites. Many of the wool dresses will be piped with silk.

Variety is especially noticeable in sleeves. Some will be short, above the elbow. Others will be long, fairly wide, in kimona style. As a rule, set-in sleeves will predominate. This season will show us some circular skirts. Hems will be scalloped again, sometimes bound with self-material, sometimes contrasting both as to color and cloth.

Skirts will be about ten or twelve inches from the floor. The hosiery manufacturers will be glad, we pre-

LET us take for granted in this special kitchen, we are about to plan, that the customary pieces are already in place. A good stove is already installed, a refrigerator, and possibly an incinerator. Where plenty of light will be available the sink is placed. The pantry, we'll say, has its small window for ventilation, as modern sanitation demands.

Where shall we start?

One of the special joys of the modern housewife is her well-equipped kitchen cabinet. Even though it should take a while to pay for, a good one is worth it when one considers its long period of service.

Presuming one is not able to buy the cabinet, another idea suggests itself. Buy a tile top kitchen table and above it hang what the shops call "cereal shelves." These are often enamelled white, and will match the table. On these shelves can be placed a series of matching containers for tea, coffee, spices and so on. Of course, one could enamel the covers of mason jars to make such a set, if one did not care to buy them.

A kitchen that is fortunate enough to possess a dishwasher is indeed lucky. For there is no one but who would escape washing dishes if she could. There are other labor savers, however, and one may as well have as many as possible. One of these is a tea cart. It can be used for carving at the dinner table, for removing dishes from the table, and then again for putting away the clean ones.

Helps In the Kitchen

Most housewives consider a fireless cooker a great help as well as a money saver. These can be bought in any size one desires, from the single well cooker with its nine-quart capacity up to the large size with three wells and thirty-two quart capacity.

A special closet for the cleaning of things is really necessary. In it can be stowed the vacuum cleaner, oil mop, dusters and brooms. A rack on the door will hold the ironing board.

Among the plans for the kitchen, new ideas are being continually developed. One of these is an omelet pan, so constructed that it can be folded together in order to turn the omelet. Another is an excellent combination, a small pan fitting the top of a kettle, with a common lid. The kettle can be used separately or with the small pan in it, can be used for cereal.

Pots and Pans

Roasters are receiving their share of study. A large one of agate for turkeys or big roasts has a good standard for its base and in addition a ventilator. In aluminum comes a round roasting pan, the top the same size as the base. Each has two handles so that they can be used separately as sauce pans.

While we are discussing pans and kettles, the modern conveniences for preserving time must not be overlooked. A wire stand with a round top to which a cloth is attached is used for draining fruits. Another wire constructed article comes in several sizes. This is a rack for holding mason jars when submerged in boiling water.

A clever wooden device has a rubber lined section for holding bottles so that they will not slip when the lid is being screwed on. And, of course, there is a multiplicity of large and small preserving kettles.

Another convenience for the winter months is a refrigerating device. In many homes the housewife does not care to bother with ice during the cold weather. A few things like the butter and milk must be kept cool, but not allowed to freeze. This device is of porous clay construction, its upper half a bowl-shaped lid. This beehive (that is what it really resembles) sits in a pan of water which is renewed from time to time. This low temperature caused by the evaporation of water in the clay is cool enough to keep things fresh and sweet.

Such an arrangement instantly recommends itself for its simplicity. Would other parts of the housekeeper's work could so easily be lightened!

VARIETY OF STYLES IN LINGERIE ARE BROUGHT FORTH

Each Season Sees Number of New, Fascinating Wear for Women of Southland

By MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

EACH year brings out more fascinating and interesting models in lingerie styles, charming in their lovely daintiness. Undergarments that are stiffly starched and plain as in the good old days, when endurance was the chief demand, practically do not exist in these days.

Any woman can call to mind the severe undecorated garments of her mother's day, starched so they scratched one, ugly, uninterestingly plain. Since woman's heart has always delighted in pretty attractive lingerie, she had discarded those old stiff ideas, and now wears soft silks and linens, georgettes and Italian silks.

Corsets, too, have long since yielded to the popular and sensible demand for comfort. Many are made with inserts of elastic with few bones, or entirely of elastic. This year has brought out a soft garment called a corselette, combining brassiere and corset, to be worn at home when a real corset is not required.

One of the novelties in this garment is a corset made of silk braid in flesh pink. The braid is stitched where the bone casings are, but free in between. Another new little idea it boasts is the use of flat pearl buttons on tabs of the braid. Wide lace trims the lower edge of this dainty affair. Another corset was no wider than a sash. To be sure it combined satin and tricot in flesh pink, but it really supported garters, that's all.

Variety of Styles

Bodices and brassieres are simply unending in profusion of styles and combinations of lace, silks and ribbons. An Italian silk brassiere is one of these. Very popular are the hand embroidered net bodies, with lovely little flowers of silk in pastel tints, reposing gracefully on filet lace as if they enjoyed their part in the charm of the whole.

The bride who will be choosing her trosseau will surely have a thrilling time. One wonders how she can ever come to a decision. One set her heart will demand at once, for it seems to want to belong especially to her. It must have been the demure orange blossoms that gave it away.

Not content to have matching bodice, bloomers, chemise and step-in drawers, it must needs add a cap. This last trifle was nothing but a clever ribbon coronet with knots of orange blossoms trailing loops of ribbon at each end. Filet insertion with pointed edge graces all the dainty parts to this whole, each one of which proudly wears its knot of orange blossoms and white ribbons.

Irresistible Lingerie

Others among the sets to match have their own breathless interest. Could any woman resist a raspberry confection of filet and georgette, combining a filet strapped chemise with step-in bloomers? Or will she rather be intrigued by a white Italian silk set of bloomers and vest, striped with blue? The top of the chemise wears a yoke of blue crepe de chine.

Breakfast coats for morning wear, —pajamas for the night, and negligees any time between, each hour of the day demands its own lingerie.

For morning there is a wide choice among pretty coats of taffeta, changeable silks, pussy willows, crepe de chine and embroidered muslin, for gracing the table when husband wants his morning coffee. But just one moment. One cunning new little garment will not be overlooked. And that is a black and white noisily checked bathrobe. Before she appears at the table she will have hung up this kimona shaped affair, with its wide band of yellow, all made of nothing less than bath towelling.

Fanciful Pajamas

Pajamas for milady started out quite simply, following the lines of those for men. But they just could not stay that way. Oh no. And why should they? So they considered silk for material, especially crepe de chine, and added tucks and laces and things until behold, this charming set. It tried to be simple and squarish and all. It hemmed its coat of pink crepe de chine with tucks of georgette, that turned a square corner running up the front, too. The collars and cuffs were of tucked material, not omitting those on the trousers.

Another pajama set would be fine for traveling. It decided on grey crepe de chine, piping itself on all sume, that they are not to lengthen greatly.

Trimmings will be more delicate this year in tracery embroideries in narrow braid and chain stitch. Accentuating the lines of a garment will be their chief duty. Coats and suit coats are characterized by length this autumn.

Coats will reach to the hem of the dress, elaborately braided and embroidered. A low waist line will be noticeable and also narrow belts.

Scarf collars with tassels are designed to wrap about one's throat, to be flung over one's shoulder. Russian blouse openings also will be used, buttoning up on the side and high on the shoulder.

Krimmer and Caracul fur are favorites, and in materials duvetyns, soft woolens and veldeens. One material for a coat is the rule, with braided collar or sometimes fur banding.

Interesting Vogues

One of the interesting styles for fall had a braided panel over the shoulders, reaching down to the front pockets under the belts. Two narrow belts crossed each other and buttoned. A high collar protected the neck, and two braided panels descended from the pointed yoke. A semi-raglan sleeve was also braided, as well as the deep cuff.

Another of the coats showed a raglan effect. Its high collar was of squirrel as well as its cuffs, which boasted a band of the same fur. It opened on the side with bound button-holes and many, many buttons. One striking feature of this coat was the treatment of the pockets. These were long slashed affairs, not horizontal but upright, bound with arrow heads at either end. Each had a line of buttons traveling its full length.

An unusual sleeve distinguished this smart model. Rows upon rows of braid descended its length to the cuff. A panel of braid made its presence known and the belt doubled itself and then buttoned.

A tailored model in soft marvella cloth held to a simple style with a circular skirt. Its high crush collar fastened above a side opening. Deep cuffs and stitched plain panels were the other features.

Among the suits, fur collars are popular and also long coats. One of these wore a deep shawl collar of squirrel reaching almost to its deep waist line in front. Pockets stood out over the hip tucked and bottoned. Appliqued panels in the back ended in tassels. A novelty cuff with a single large button finished the sleeve.

Trimmings for Suits

Another attractive suit model in velour de laine had an interesting collar. This was a crush affair of fur and cloth, making a scarf to be flung over the shoulder, there to delightfully end in a tassel. Its opening was at the side and high on the shoulder. At the back wide braid below the belt went up over the shoulder and down the side front, making a distinct change from the usual. As with others, it double belted itself and wore deep braided cuffs.

Buttons, large and square, are distinctive on this year's suit.

What will be the mood of the afternoon dress? Will it flutter gayly and brightly, or will it demurely subdue its colors and lines?

Regardless of the brilliant tones worn by the leaves in the fall of the year, the afternoon dress chooses the more sombre colors. Among these putty is the gayest—though would one call it gay?—while navy blues, dark browns and French grey also appear. Dark grey is another good color.

One brown tunic skirt had gussets of rust set in, as if it weren't content to stay too subdued.

Trimmings are interesting and various. Moire ribbons, beaded effects, and rosettes and ruffles of the material are some of these.

Moire ribbon is put on in fascinating clusters of tabs about four inches long, peeping from under tucks. A georgette dress boasted a deep band of these tabs, all set on in rows at its hem. Generally the trimming is horizontal.

More About Trimmings

Bead trimming is more concentrated as to pattern and tends to accent the lines of the dress.

Ruffles of taffeta cleverly fringed by fraying the material are also used. Rosettes and flowers of the material of the dress are appliqued for decoration thereof. Some eyelet embroidery is seen. Garnet thread is often used to embroider navy blue.

Canton crepe of a finer variety is popular among the fall materials and also georgettes and taffetas. Taffeta is the great favorite.

Evening dresses this year will be filmy with wide laces. And praise be, the colors are to have it their own way. Dyed laces in ecru, grey, yellow, raspberry and orchid will add to the fairylike quality of the party frock.

For the youthful, bouffant taffta in gay colors makes an appropriate setting. Trimmings on these are usually appliqued roses, ruffles and fruits.

But to return to laces. Cascades of lace trail their filmy lengths below tightly fitted taffeta bodices with charming effect. Over a chiffon drop, a single full skirt of lace will fall, for the direct purpose of intriguing the beholder.

A softly draped lace necklace was noticeable on some of these costumes while others wore long loose sleeves of lace.

Generally dresses for the ball carefully omit sleeves, occasionally they are careless enough to let a narrow band of taffeta cross the upper arm.

But, strange to say, with these sleeveless gowns are many high necks. A fitted round effect is the usual treatment.

Apparently the very low down-to-the-waistline back is to be omitted.

Autumn Directs Children's Fashions

A BLUE haze obscures the distant trees, purple against the sky, there is an acrid smell of burning leaves, little valleys of white frost line the ruts in the road, and we are sure that autumn again holds its cheery and colorful sway.

While the leaves are donning their most brilliant hues, at Jack Frost's command, alas that we mortals do not follow suit. Except for here and there a bright jacket, the little folks are getting ready for school, wearing navy blues and browns and the more sombre colors. Thank goodness, bright Tams are possible and sweaters and a bright plaid or two.

One or two of the jersey frocks will not be subdued, however, but blossom forth in jades and tans, cerise and white and other joyous colors.

For School Days

One little jersey frock for school days is of jade green jersey, made very straight with a narrow belt of the green. Cuffs are of putty color, jersey bound with a narrow edge of green. A yoke of putty is bound the same way. Over each hip is a smart little arrangement, a perfectly straight panel made of alternate stripes of putty and green.

Two pretty little frocks suggest themselves for early fall. Perhaps these are not frocks, for they combine a smock with bloomers to match. One set is of red and white gingham, with white collars and cuffs. Black is used for embroidery on the white checks. Another set is practical in pongee. The smock is bound at the round neckline with orchid and also at the cuffs. Flowers very beautifully done in Japanese embroidery repeat these colors, with jade leaves. The bloomers rejoice in a tiny pocket.

In taffeta, too, comes another set, comprised of smock with matching bloomers. Of navy blue, the smock is trimmed with knife pleating of taffeta, at the round neckline, sleeves and hem. The front of the smock makes one deep scollop, ending over each hip. At the knee of the bloomers more pleating appears. A few dainty little accents of red embroidery decorate the neck and yoke.

For a charming party frock, old blue taffeta is combined with coral crepe de chine. Two long aprons, or shall one say panels of taffeta fasten over the shoulders. The bound round ended tab from the front slips through a similar tab from the back. Again at the hem tabs hold the front and back panels together, except that here a pretty ribbon rose is added. The underdress is gay with coral, fluffy with short round puff sleeves. A simple little bound neckline finishes it.

For the Baby Carriage

For the wee infant matched pillows and carriage spreads are shown. One set was beautifully hand drawn in crepe de chine. A star shape of drawn work decorated the center, while the hem was edged with wide Val lace. Another dainty pillow of pink silk covered itself with hand embroidered net, with a wide lace edge. The spread corresponded with white net over pink and wore a large flat pink bow of narrow ribbon.

For school wear for the miss, blouses and pleated skirts will be good and also sailor suits. For a pleated beige jersey skirt, a smart little box coat of duvetyn is designed, fastening with a single button.

A practical crepe de chine dress of simple straight design wears a narrow belt. A gingham collar and cuffs add a touch of quaint freshness edging itself with pleating. Buster Brown must have designed the collar.

Among the coats, the comfortable camel's hair will appear again. Its raglan sleeves are belted at the cuff with a narrow strap and buckle. A high soft collar will button under the young lady's chin, and her coat will fasten with more straps and buckles. The belt, not to be outdone, also rejoices in a buckle.

A cape back that makes a part of the sleeve is the feature of another child's coat, braided in an interesting design. A narrow belt doubles in front, the way so many of them do. And daughter may tuck her hands into little slit pockets.

There are those who do not like autumn. With all these pretty things to wear, how can they dislike this season?

MANY MOODS—AND MODES—TWINED FOR FEMININE

Varied Contributions Submitted For Approval; Goods For Fall And Winter Here

Let those who were shocked at our past season's frock take hope.

Sports costumes this fall are self-expressive as all our other autumn moods. Black and white are combined in many, many ways. Sleeveless jackets for the early season are great favorites.

Smart Sports Outfits

A three-piece suit in jersey seems especially wearable. A straight slip-over jersey dress comes in jade, grey, rose and black. With this the simple hand made blouse is appropriate with its fresh collars and cuffs. To complete the costume a sport jacket of matching color offers its soft comfort, with two pockets just where one's hand will easily find them. A silk sweater with a plaid skirt makes a pleasant combination. Because of their gay bright colors, sports things are so very attractive.

If among the wonderfully designed and beautifully colored clothes offered this fall, you cannot select a complete wardrobe, exactly fitting your personal needs, you are indeed an unhappy woman. You do not deserve sympathy.

But you are rare. Most of us will find ourselves correctly and smartly gowned in this year's frocks, fitting as they so perfectly do, the every need of the busy day of the modern woman.

HOW DOES HE DO IT?

TURLOCK—Joseph R. Romano, 16 years of age, and said to be incorrigible, is accused of abusing his mother. Nothing unusual in that you say, but the extraordinary part is that the boy is also a deaf mute. He is subject, his parents claim, to violent fits of temper. He cannot be confined in any state instiution until he has been resident in the state for a year, according to regulations. He has still five months in which to reform.

FIND ANCIENT DOCUMENTS

HANFORD—The ancient roster of the Columbian guards, believed to have been destroyed, was discovered here in an old trunk, formerly the property of James Hill, former city clerk. John L. Sullivan, last surviving member of the Columbian guards, asked permission to investigate the trunk, which had been left in charge of Fire Chief Kendall at the time of Hill's death. Among other things the trunk was found to contain many papers, photographs and souvenirs of interest in the history of Hanford and Kings county.

pockets with coral. A round collar of coral finished neck, and all its cuffs, too.

Negligees look good enough to eat. A princess slip had slipped among them, demanding to be noticed. It was made of white net, gathered at the waist with a wide pink ribbon in a casing. Again at the hem the pink ribbon lurked in its casing, edged with a wide ruffle of the net. Beautiful hand embroidery decorated the bodice in a triangular motive, repeated again at the hem in front.

Of these two negligees, which will you choose? One is pink crepe de chine, the other hand embroidered net with filet insertion. The net one conceals, but partly a dainty slip of pink silk, with accordian pleated skirt sashed with blue.

The crepe de chine negligee took a front panel, with a wide hem just beyond filet insertion, and joined it to a similar back panel. Then it tied a sash around the two. At the round neck line it wore a lovely pastel bouquet flatly soft as a demure decoration.

WHAT STOPPED CITY PIPES?

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.—What is stopping the city water pipes? Mayor Johnston has a theory that it was a lizard. He came into the city hall today with a small section of plumbing under his arm, and exhibited a quantity of reddish substance he extracted therefrom.

"It isn't rust, it's vegetable matter," he asserted. "And I'm finding it in water pipes all over the city." The mayor explained that he believed the substance was the remains of a lizard. His theory is that a lizard or snake got into one of the main pipes, and laid eggs, from which hatched creatures large enough to block the pipes in the residences.

SOMETHING TO FIGHT OVER

BOISE, Idaho—Here is something for orchardists to squabble over. E. F. Stephens of Nampa, known as the Apple King of Idaho, has just returned from a trip to the coast, and is convinced that the orchard land and orchard products of Idaho are superior to those in the fruit-growing sections of the coast. Stephens inspected chiefly the Willamette Valley region in Oregon, which he was informed was representative of the best fruit-growing districts of the coast. He did not visit the Watsonville, or other California orchards, but was assured that the Oregon region was superior.

NOT AFRAID OF THIRTEEN

SAN DIEGO—Turning the jinx into jinks is the accomplishment of Mrs. Lizzie A. Sellers and Capt. John Tyrell, who were married here on Friday. The Rev. W. E. Crabtree, who performed the ceremony, announced that he had already officiated at the weddings of twelve other members of the Sellers family. Thirteen guests were invited to the wedding, which was celebrated as gaily as though hoodoos and jinxes were nothing at all.

VICTORY FOR SOFT DRINKS

PORTERVILLE—Mark down the first recorded victory for the old-fashioned "sody" over home brew. City Clerk George Avery today announced that fines under the liquor ordinance for the month ending Aug. 15 were less than half of those the month preceding. Soft drinks, during the hot period of the past month, however, have never so prospered, and licenses collected from soft drink parlors and new dispensaries have exceeded in amounts the liquor fines.

YOUNGEST HOLD-UP VICTIM

NEW YORK—David Fund, 2½ years old, of the Bronx, has the distinction of being New York's youngest victim of a hold-up. David was left in his baby carriage outside a store while a maid went in to make a purchase. When she returned the carriage and baby were gone. Later the child was found playing in the street minus his shoes and the perambulator was nowhere to be seen. Detectives searched in vain for the robbers.

BATTLE OF ANTS BEGINS

PASADENA—The battle of Old Anteat'em is again in progress. And the park board has appropriated $250 for armament in the campaign. Ants in the city parks have become so ravenous and so numerous that practically all herbage and greenery in the parks have been ruthlessly devoured. The appropriation of $250 will be expended chiefly in the purchase and dissemination of large quantities of ant poison in and about the parks, according to official documents.

Portraying Fall Hats

By MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

THE fall hat,—how shall one portray it?

A gallery of portraits are necessary to do justice to this autumn's variations of the mode. And not a gallery of old masters,—nay, nay! To be sure, the modiste draws ever and anon fresh inspiration from historic headgear, but what, asks one, is more hopelessly out of date than a last year's hat?

What wonderfully fertile imaginations the milliners must possess to keep up so gallantly this work of ever new creations! No sooner has one adjusted oneself to a vogue of one material or feather than an entirely new idea in materials is thrust upon one's attention. And in hats, novelty is ceaseless.

This season will launch attractive head wear in grosgrain and moire ribbons, as well as duvetyn and all-feather hats. Satins, especially black, will be worn and taffeta combined with duvetyn.

The good old comfortable shapes, such as the sailor and turban, will be with us again, as well as all the variations of the closefitting and off-the-face hat.

Sports wear demands felt this year, with the most original and unique decorations ever devised for the bewilderment of the admiring male. Colors know no limits. A single hat may vie with the rainbow. Cut-out trimmings lined with a contrasting color are popular, as are also the cunningest yarn flowers.

One perfect love of felt hat in the new tomato shade, bound its high round crown with a wide white velvet band. Large, square beads formed stiff little flowers on this band, resembling for all the world the cross-stitch on the sampler of our grandmother's day. Its drooping brim was bound with white.

Interesting Vogues

Another pretty hat of tan felt, with a narow brim, wore a basket decoration squarely in front. The basket was made of interlaced blue ribbon, with a little bow at the top. From it sprouted bright colored yarn flowers in dainty array.

Another felt hat, a sailor with a deep rolling brim wore this most interesting trimming. It was a beautifully colored Persian band, which on close examination proved to be hand-painted leather. Stiff little fruit cutouts of duvetyn decorated others, while some were jaunty with pendent jet beads strung on filaments of ostrich.

In the street hats, a soft wide sailor of black moire turned up. From the base of the crown a white cockade danced,—a round knob with flying ends, all of narrow white silk braid.

How They Are Garnished

Another of the ribbon hats was made entirely of gray grosgrain, except for a navy facing under the brim. Over each ear a roll of ribbon turned up,—a stiff roll like a miniature diploma.

Lattice effects in ribbon or georgette are good. They appear on the top of the crown or as facing. A round turban of blue had a lattice crown of blue and white. All black lattice is popular, too.

One of the grosgrain street hats edged its round crown with navy and white ribbon making alternate triangles. Its brim was bound the same way. Exactly in front it wore a little jet ornament, four little circles caught at the top.

A poke shape in navy georgette will one of these days grace and add its charm to a piquant face. A narrow ribbon binding edged its brim, faced with flesh-tinted crepe de chine. Over one ear a lovely straw or raffia water lily tried to catch the eye,—and we may as well admit,—it succeeded.

On the feather hats! One may be acquainted with glycerine ostrich and hackle, and even vulture, but suddenly a new group is thrust upon one's attention. Pheasant feathers,—long tails and short bits of bright color, and other equally new effects of vulture curled to represent chinchilla present themselves. All-feather hats have attained all the well-known shapes,—sailors, turbans, large and small and close-fitting toques as well.

One sailor of tete de negre hackle wore bright inserts of pheasant in little squares. Another of hackle wore a wing effect of gray culture right off its brim. A jade green hackle turban trimmed itself with pheasant. Nashua is popular for crowns. In blue and jade green it wore a black glycerine ostrich brim.

Another interesting round turban of hackle trailed short bright fluffs of ostrich over each ear. A smart little tricorn of black hackle as to points crowned itself with Copenhagen blue. From the points long fringes of ostrich floated free.

And we must not forget a snug little round crimson turban all feathers. A double band of fluffed hackle feathers encircled it. Its crown was smooth hackle, in a sunburnt effect.

With the colors this year come the ever new shades. We have known and loved King's blue and Chinese blue,—how will Beauvais be received? Henna and rust are lovely in browns,—how will milady like ember? Petunia is a soft purple, and among the favorites in grays is pelican. It isn't the only bird of color,—for pheasant takes its place in this year's attractive list.

Among the hand made flowers of this season are some lovely white ones of a deep plush. These are centered about stiff little jet stamens. A sort of quill or feather effect was cleverly produced in a taupe canton crepe chapeau. It had a dashing wide brim effect. Across this and bound to it were tabs of the same material with a dark ribbon spine like some new feather. The end of the spine wound round the round, high crown, also canton crepe.

In all this portrait gallery of autumn modes each woman will find some one hat that will exactly and charmingly frame her face. And not one hat, for she must have several to be appropriately dressed. A street hat is adaptable to many occasions, but it cannot usurp the place of a dress hat, and a sports hat would indeed appear ridiculous with an evening gown. Good taste is exacting its demands, and it cannot be ignored, no matter how free from conventions we may believe ourselves to be.

How well we women all know and feel the joy and self-respect that comes of being quite positively sure we are correctly dressed!

'BIG BERTHA' IS RECEIVED

SAN LUIS OBISPO—San Luis Obispo, hitherto a peaceful colony, now has a "big bertha." The former German howitzer, secured from the government after nine months of negotiating by the American Legion post, will soon occupy an emplacement on the court house lawn. The gun arrived from the U. S. arsenal at Benicia, and will be unloaded—from a flat car—as soon as arrangements are completed. Nothing definite is known regarding the history of the gun, but it is understood that it was captured at Belleau Wood. Others hold to the Chateau Thierry.

Inventors connected with the Krupp works in Germany have brought forth a new metal known as platinum steel, which is being used successfully as a substitute for platinum, gold and silver in the filling of teeth.

LARGE IRRIGATION PLANS

RIVERSIDE—Plans to irrigate thousands of acres of land in the Victor valley are contemplated in the proposed purchase of Little Bear lake and the Big Bear valley properties of the Arrowhead Reservoir and Power company by a big financial syndicate. The new company intends to expend $700,000 in the purchase of the property, it is said, and $3,000,000 in building a new dam and irrigating system. The company will also construct a fine hotel on the shore of Big Bear lake, it is said.

Two typical southwestern products are to be perpetuated when a huge bronze with spirited figures of cowboy and longhorn steer is placed in the state house grounds at Austin, Tex. The old-time cowboy is now nearly extinct and fat Herefords have replaced the longhorn.

—the most rapidly growing city on the Pacific Coast, a beautiful home commanding an unobstructed view of picturesque Verdugo Woodlands, constructed by our Building Department from honest materials. Compare these values with anything in or near Los Angeles.

Verdugo Woodlands seems to include everything worth while in outdoor California.

All the beauties and charms of mountains, foothills, canyons and running streams; grand old trees are here in profusion. This wooded fairy land is rich in romance and historic value. This is the place of places, cherished by the old pioneer Verdugo family and the original Adobe Home is still being preserved.

This environment is imminently connected with the early history of Southern California and for many years it was the favorite woodland retreat of the Pueblo of Los Angeles.

While a fortune has been expended for improvements and many beautiful homes adorn the crests, knolls and hillsides, the original natural beauty has been kept intact.

There is nothing hard nor formal in the whole scheme. The entire place is just as nature wrought it and it will ever be so.

Other special features are 1100 ft. elevation; pure, clear, invigorating, foothill air; soft water from mountain streams; fogless, dustless, smokeless days; beautiful boulevards; excellent car service; 35 minutes from Los Angeles and 5 minutes from Glendale business section, schools, churches, theatres, etc.

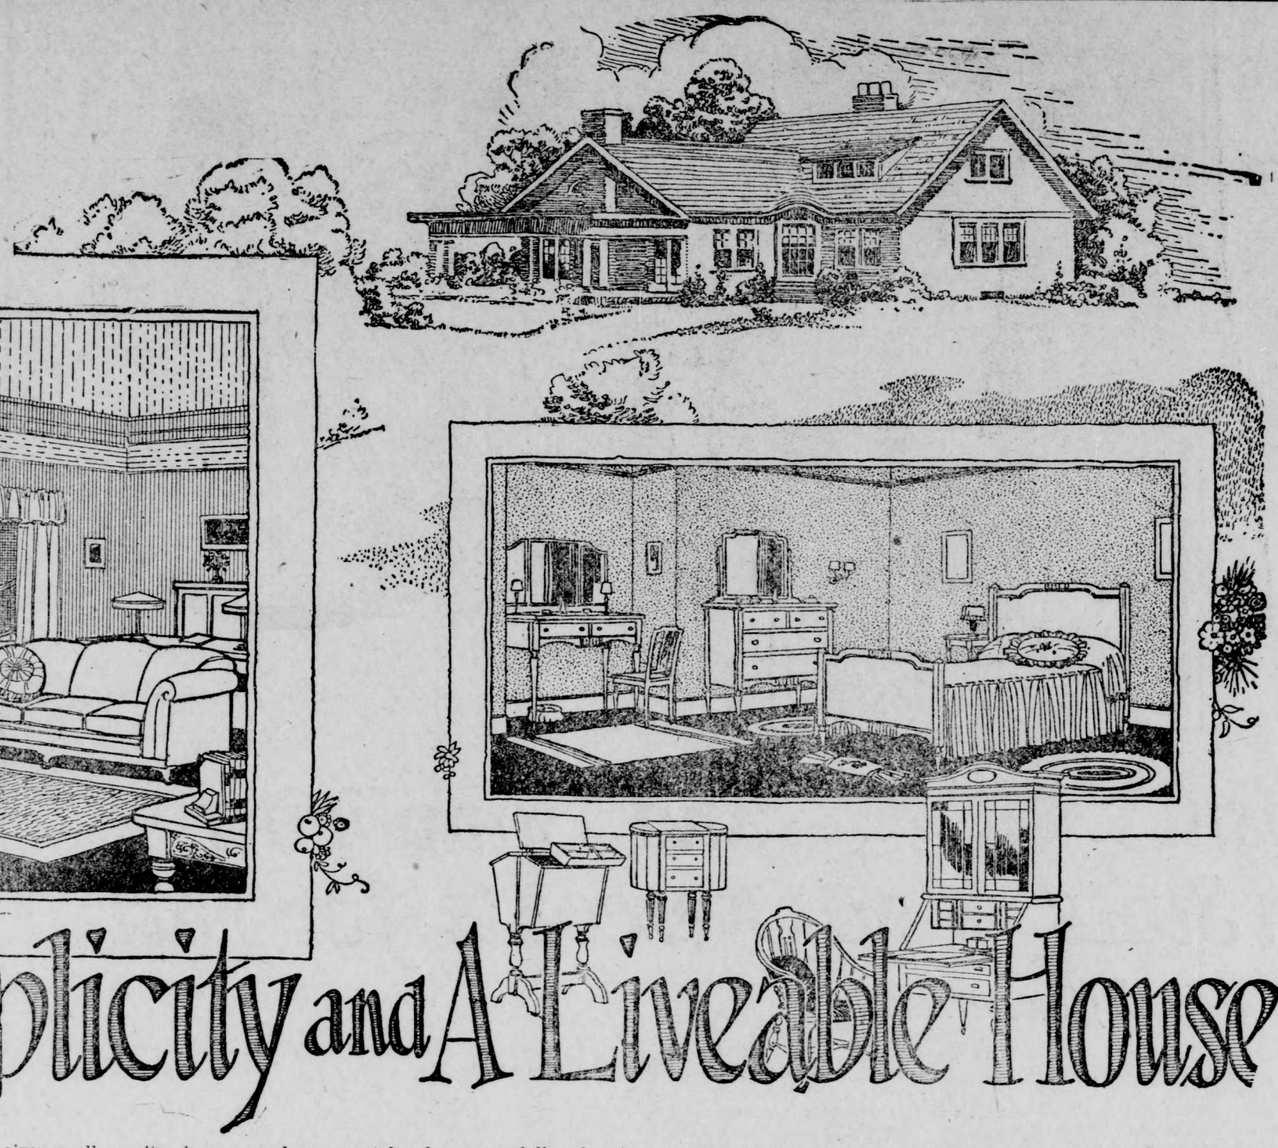
PLACE PERSONALITY IN YOUR HOUSE BY FURNITURE

Many Attractive Pieces On Display In Glendale By Furnishings Dealers

THERE is a subtle something that creates charm in a home. So many elements must be combined to make up this quality. And so much restraint must be exercised. In many many homes one is impressed at once with a vast profusion of objects. Such a house needs careful elimination more than any other one thing—could people but understand the restful quality of simplicity.

Many a woman, if she would but sweep all the clutter from her dresser into the top drawer, and not let there be but three objects out at one time, would be amazed at how much easier this would make it for her, and how much more restful she would find it.



Simplicity and A Liveable House

Rooms Express Personality

As in dressing, one is careful to select an appropriate costume, so in creating a liveable home, one selects appropriate furniture. Small rooms will not stand large overstuffed suites. Large rooms must not be cluttered with light elaborate furniture.

Let us see what this season offers. Presuming the house to have high ceilings, generous rooms, fireplaces, as many of the older homes, and some of the newer ones, do, what will be suitable? A luxurious overstuffed davenport, with loose cushions, upholstered in wool tapestry, hand embroidered, must be considered first. Here is a point. The heavy rocker and arm chair need no longer match the davenport. And this well, too. Because the owner is allowed so much more play of his individual taste.

Another beautiful chair, only one should be used in a room, is beautiful in polychrome Italian Rennaissance. A high backed handsome old fellow it is, too, and elaborately carved. Then, one must have a good library table, one or two small tables, some musical instrument, and a shaded lamp, not to mention bookcases. A spinet desk will make an attractive addition.

A dining room in this large high ceilinged home will be stately in French Rennaissance. The oblong walnut table has the center of attention, while one wall will boast an unusual console board. This is an extremely wide table, the top marble, of dull green, and the drawers concealed in the wood.

Opposite are two chests, the high one with closed doors, standing on dignified carved legs, is for the silver service, while the low chest is for flat silver and like the console board, marble topped.

Bedroom Furnishings

For a bedroom one would choose a painted suite, hand decorated, or one of the natural wood finishes. Walnut and mahogany are good in Hepplewhite, Sheraton, Louis XVI, according to one's taste.

For the smaller homes, where the large overstuffed pieces are too massive, smaller suites in cane and upholstery are appropriate. Velours are popular for the cushions of these, also mohair, frieze and leather. A good cotton tapestry is a wise investment, promising at least eight or nine years' service.

In this lighter furniture all the good periods are available, Queen Anne, Adam, Chippendale and Hepplewhite.

A comfortable piece for the living room is a chaise lounge, or if one prefers it, a day bed. For the small apartment there is a sofa that can be made into a bed very easily, supplying extra sleeping space.

Polychrome furniture is being manufactured for dining rooms. It must be chosen carefully, else there will be too much color in the room.

For the bedrooms in the smaller house, walnut or mahogany sets are always good. The ivory suites are not as popular as they were.

It is notable that manufacturers of high grade furniture will maintain their careful construction and good materials in their less expensive lines as well as in their costly ones.

For the breakfast room there are several types of furniture offered. Enameled sets, hand decorated, are very beautiful. One of these in Queen Anne wore a gray surface with a narrow gold line. Windsor chairs are good in this room.

A breakfast room in fibre or reed makes an attractive place. Besides the table and matching chairs, one may find both serving table and buffet. A pretty fernery at the window will add living green, while a glass-topped tea cart will save steps for the housewife.

Cretonnes and Chintzes

Brightly patterned cretonnes and chintzes are used to upholster fiber and reed furniture, for the sun parlor and porch. Enamel skillfully repeats notes of color from the cretonne patterns. Printed linen is too expensive for most people and is not much in demand.

Among the small pieces one may select for this pleasant room, are chaise lounges, lamps, desks, small tables and lounging chairs. A pretty little sewing table had baskets at each end and a wooden top with two drawers in the center. A kidney-shaped desk of fiber has a cunning round chair to match. In one corner a small octagonal table may stand, to hold a plant, with a shelf below for magazines.

Tasteful arrangement of the hall with a few pieces carefully selected, is important. Mirrors lend themselves to this space admirably and are designed to match in periods, or are attractive in gold or colored frames. Placed above a console table with its bright bit of gay Venetian glass, the mirror feels quite at home. Pottery parrots are suitable below the glass, or a bowl of flowers flanked by candlesticks.

One of the handsome polychrome chairs with its high carved back mentioned earlier, will be sufficient by itself for the hall. The chief service performed by the hail is the creation of a pleasant impression on those who are entering. Here again simplicity is paramount. In fact there is no room in the house where this principle is not of the greatest importance in making an interior at once restful and attractive.

SAN DIEGO—This is a limberick. Therefore no names are mentioned. The facetious friend, always necessary in all anecdotes, called up a one-legged acquaintance.

"This is the Walk-Over Artificial Limb Company," he said. "I am introducing to you a new one quart leg, ingeniously designed with a removable spigot to permit you to carry any liquid you care to without the embarrassing bulge on the hip. May I send my representative to call on you?"

The afflicted man, for the first time grateful for his affliction, acquiesced. Then the facetious friend called up an artificial limb factory, and giving the name of his friend, asked them to send an agent to take an order for an artificial limb. Business of sheepish looks when the agent had left the office. But facetious friend, who was too mirthful, is expected to order an artificial leg of his own when he leaves the hospital.

Conservatism and Simplicity Noted in Suits and Overcoats for Fall

by Chester Feitel

SIMPLICITY is the keynote of fall fashions for men's suits. All traces of the novelty garments have been effaced by the designers who have replaced them with a vastly more graceful, practical vogue. One dependent upon superior tailoring and high grade materials for its "class" rather than on trick features as in the past seasons.

The tendency to conservatism is more adapted to the well dressed business man, providing a more dignified bearing conducive to true poise. The sporty suit has been succeeded by one that is more refined, and correct.

Quality Mark of Distinction

Relaxing from their efforts to produce the so-called "smart" effects, designers have decreed that suits rely solely on their quality for distinction. Discriminating dressers have always been aware that it is impossible to imitate the elegant simplicity of high grade clothes with cheaper substitutes, so perhaps it was their almost prohibitive prices in the past few years that begot the vogue of extreme suits.

The fact that the clothes purchasing power of a dollar has increased nearly 50 per cent is probably, likewise, accountable for its abolition.

Suits for Fall Graceful

Suits are built along the natural lines of the figure, rendering them easy-fitting and graceful. Don't be misled in believing that the fashion has not its own basic style features, they are as clearly defined as ever, but are of an inbred nature constituted by the lines and tailoring. This permits more latitude in selection and encourages that desired individuality.

From the high school youth to the mature business man this fashion may be adapted with equal success.

Perhaps they lose something by sacrificing the military suggestion that was in evidence, reminiscent of the doughboy's uniform, but on the whole the change in style is distinctly for the better, and the variation is an added charm.

Coats are semi-fitted with generally lower lines. Slightly waisted, several inches lower than in the spring and summer suits, and the pockets and lapels have likewise dropped. The lapels are medium notched, long and rolling. A medium vent is used, about eight inches, the shorter vent having proved ungraceful and not suited to the ordinary physique.

As to the number of buttons, it is wholly a matter of choice, usually governed by the type of figure and individual preference. Two, three and four-button models seeming to share equal favor.

There is always a certain quantity of double-breasted coats worn, especially in fall, and although they are not featured they have also received their share of attention. Noticeable in them are the same proclivities as in the single-breasted models, and they lend themselves so well and readily to this treatment that there is a strong probability of increased popularity as the season advances.

The trousers seem to have struck a happy medium. Neither the tight bottom or bell-shaped trousers legs are to be used, but straight and full from the hips down. This is also an evidence of the conservativeness of the prevailing style. They are to be worn quite long, breaking over the shoes, without cuffs on the bottom.

Vests Are Cut Lower

Five buttons have been relegated to vests. They are cut a trifle lower with longer points conforming to the general droopy lines of the suit.

Patch pockets were one of the innovations that showed the direct military influence and have been completely eliminated. Succeeding are the plain flapped inserted pockets. It will be noticed also, that they have been dropped several inches to a more natural position.

There is practically no partiality shown as to colors—if any at all is evinced perhaps it is to brown which is always attractive and serviceable and has been somewhat neglected recently. However, green, grey, blue and mixed materials are amply represented.

Checks and Plaids Liked

An overdose of stripes has directed the choice to herring-bones, checks and plaids for fall fashions.

Overcoats, of course, show the same designing as suits but are more liberal in their interpretation. Belts are often employed either fully circling or confined to the back of the jaunty effect relieving that objectionable bundled-up feeling.

Roomy patch pockets are also noted, and successfully further the effect of sturdy outdoor smartness that is correct and permissible in an overcoat.

Variety in Overcoats

Double-breasted models appear to be most favored, but the best manufacturers are also showing some very dapper single-breasted ones, especially in the lighter weight top-coats.

Very few fur-trimmed models are shown, and these confine themselves to a small, detachable collar of seal, beaver or otter. Fur-lined coats are only displayed for motoring. The fact that the prices of furs has materially reduced might lead one to expect a more general use but the reaction to that all-prevailing simplicity has predominated, banishing their application.

Raglans and Ulsters O. K.

Raglans and ulsters are serviceable and practical, and are built along strong, serviceable lines, insuring maximum wear. Some new and attractive materials are used and the colors include shades of brown, green, blue and gray, also novelty mixtures.

For more dressy occasions or mild days, top-coats of lighter weight. Most obvious are the distinctive cuts and careful tailoring of these garments. They are quite short, barely past the knee permitting greater freedom for the legs.

Blue and Black Chosen Colors

These models follow more closely the dictates for the suit coats. Belts and patch pockets rarely being seen—straight semi-fitted backs invariably appear. Blue and black seem to be the chosen colors for these coats.

Remembering the prime requisites of the fall vogues, quality and simplicity, one may expect to see fewer incongruities and more dignified and gracefully suited men this season. If some of the sportiness has been sacrificed this is more than compensated by the acquired distinction.

Advertising Provides Authentic Haberdashery Information

NATIONAL advertising has exerted a stabilizing as well as uplifting influence upon haberdashery.

One may sit in the lobby of any metropolitan hotel—take the Pennsylvania in New York, for instance—and note the apparel of the men. From the four corners of the country all of the same favored fashions are observed.

The cotton planter from New Orleans and the stock-yards representative from Chicago are likely to display the same collar, cravat, or shirt styles as the Wall street broker.

Good Style Is Universal

This is NOT due to imitation, as the clothiers in the very smallest villages are conversant with the latest fashion dictates and trend of styles. Intelligently informed by progressive manufacturers so that the "Beau Brummel" of the so-called "hick" towns might be transplanted to Broadway, without a vestige of difference in the fashion of his accoutrements.

Pongee and white soft shirts with attached soft collars still retain their favor. Added to these are shirts of gray, green, purple, etc., in checked, striped, and small patterned effects with stiff collars to match, and are worn with very smart effect.

French Cuff Still Popular

Such shirts as these are developed in madras, cheviots and poplins and the decidedly popular French cuff is used.

Speaking of cuffs, a new novelty is the straight, attached, unstarched ones with two buttonholes and attached pearl buttons. This is quite "different" and very practical.

For the evening white shirts are preferred. Soft ones in linen, silk and novelty materials are displayed and beginning to reinstate itself is the pleated bosom shirt. The dressy appearance of these is unquestionable.

Favor White Jersey Silk

Silk shirts have been reduced in price and though perhaps they have lost some of their aristocracy by the operation, their rich textures and beautiful colors always assure a degree of popularity. The white Jersey silk ones are particularly favored and are neat and distinguished, worn with the fashionable grenadine ties of black and dark colors.

Fine flannel is employed in the making of some very fashionable and good-looking shirts for fall. They are particularly comfortable and present a very attractive appearance.

The Newest in Neckwear

A word here about ties. Quite unusual effects are observed in the silk cravats and they have rapidly superseded the sombre-hued knitted ones. A really attractive pattern is the diagonal, contracting stripe one. Combinations of two or three colors; such as blue, silver and black, tan and maroon, etc., are observed, presenting pleasing and colorful effects.

Particularly smart and distinctive are the grenadine ties, usually displayed in the darker shades. These cravats are either sold in color with interwoven designs or with small contrasting figures, such as dots or fleur de lis.

Also popular among smart dressers is the bat-winged bow tie. They have been laid on the shelf long enough to give them a new twang.

Vogue of Woolen Hose

Not to be overlooked is the importance of hosiery. In the last year or so men have refused to dispense with their neat oxfords even on the coldest days, hence the vogue of wool, worsted, camel's hair or cashmere sox for comfort and protection. Heather mixtures and darker shades of blue, brown and gray, also black, are shown.

Fine lisle and silk hose, of course, always retain their position in fashion's favor and all the darker colors are amply represented in the latest shipments from the hosiery manufacturers.

'Kerchiefs Are Fanciful

Handkerchiefs for men have become quite fanciful, often displaying colored borders and decorative effects. Some silk and fine linen ones are treated with drawn threads of one, two and even three harmonizing colors. Colored initials and monograms are used even on the plain white handkerchiefs. Pongee which is usually associated with mid summer is used to fashion some of the very smartest men's handkerchiefs for all.

At least two pairs of gloves are essential. Buckskin or heavy cape for every day and kid or suede for the evening. Dark brown or grey is preferred and both plain and embroidered or stitched backs are approved.

Collars for fall are a trifle higher though still low enough to render them easy-fitting and permitting free play to muscles of the neck. The short, pointed models are preferred with close setting front.

Conveniences for Comfort In Homes

BY MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

THE little mechanical devices that assist in making house work less of a burden are rapidly becoming so within the reach of all, that every home boasts some of them.

And the workmanship is improving at the same time. One of the newest ideas is a sewing machine (with a motor) that folds into a neat table, that makes a very pretty console for the dining room.

Of course, electric irons are a joy. There are the two sizes, one for the household and the other for the traveler.

Helps for Baby

One can imagine several little comforts for the mother, whose baby's cry awakes her in the night. With a switch with a double socket she could turn on a little heater for her toes and a soft shaded light. Another outlet would heat a clever little bottle warmer so that in great coziness and comfort the little one could be cared for and quickly sent to sleep again.

For the table there are several practical appliances. The lamp and coffee percolator are two of these. A waffle iron and a grill are wonderful helps at the breakfast hour, with their appetizing odors sent into the air.

One of the newer table accessories is an electric tea pot with its own tea ball. The tea ball is held on a chain through the knob at the top. When the tea is steeped, the tea ball can be raised and caught, so it will be free from the water, and not make the tea too strong.

Gas Appliances

Where electricity is not available there are several very convenient gas appliances. One of these is the gas iron, and another is a light portable heater with copper facing so that it sends out a cheery glow. Of course the gas stove will have its clever little lighter, so that pressing a button lights the burners as the gas is turned on. With the gas stove comes a good kitchen heater for cold mornings, and also a modern kitchen contains a good incinerator.

So it would seem that with a well planned house the modern woman should be far freer than her grandmother, who was not fortunate enough to possess all these labor-saving devices.

A San Francisco motorist has discovered that chicken wire laid over deep and shifting sand or mud provides almost perfect traction for the automobile. He recommends a piece of wire three or four feet wider than the car and two or more times the wheel base.

Less than one per cent of the owners of automobile in Rio de Janeiro drive their cars.

Often we could mend the ragged edge of care if we simply took a stitch in time.

The manufacture of paper from wood pulp involves twent-eight separate operations.

A City Without a Cemetery

—would be similar to a town without a church or a school. Our present day civilization demands that every community should have a beautiful burying ground under perpetual care.

Glendale Has a Cemetery of Its Very Own

And but one—Grand View Memorial Park.

This cemetery is located in one of the most beautiful and most desirable locations in all Glendale—the Jewel of Southern California cities.

Grand View Memorial Park nestles on a perfectly drained, high location in close proximity to the green Verdugo Hills.

Every inch of its spacious, parklike grounds is under perpetual care, magnificent developments are under way and the management absolutely guarantees that every lot is perfectly drained and there are no watery graves.

The new chapel now in course of construction will be completed in a few weeks.

Here you will find every service and consideration which should merit your investigation in lieu of those trying times when such facilities as we offer are so necessary. Our private car is at your service without charge when you wish to visit the grounds.

On the Trail of Fall Footwear

YOU may have always thought that shoes were made of leather, with possibly a few of cloth, satin or brocade. But this year you will have to enlarge your ideas of materials, for they are going to spring one of their clever little surprises on the unsuspecting public. This season will launch an all-fur boot.

Oh no, not wooly fur,—at least, not long-haired fur. That would make a clumsy bit of footwear, wouldn't it? Even the tiniest foot could not stand such an appearance. Although to be sure one envisages the Esquimaux belle clad in long-haired boot. But then consider the weather.

Dainty Fur Slippers

No. This new shoe will be made of American broadtail, a fur resembling Persian lamb. It seems to have peculiar advantages. It will not crack or split. Rain only serves to tighten its natural curl. There will be many colors, gray, brown, tan and black. All of these may be washed with soap and water. White needs to be cleaned with gasoline. There will be combinations of colors, too, like tan and brown, black and gray. And bright colors, pinks, jades, blues, for milady's evening wear, and the twinkling toes of mademoiselle of the chorus, will be produced by our ever-brilliant manufacturers.

No, Betty, I do not believe oxfords or street boots will be made of this new material. However, you can wear a pretty pump or a strap slipper of fur. There will be many fancy patterns from which to choose, but for your street shoes you will have to be satisfied with the good old calfs and kids.

One wonders why leather comes from such youthful animals,—is it not because it has more spring in it?

One is well aware how a political party, having been out of power, promptly reverses all the work done by its predecessors, once it returns to the seat of authority. Just so the styles reverse the fads of the previous season. This spring was many-colored as to leather. So autumn will reverse this idea and return to black. Black will be good in clothes, too, as well as in boots. Of course, the dark brown oxford will be in again, a lace oxford to be worn with spats. Strap oxfords do not quite lend themselves to the trig appearance of the smartly smooth spat.

To the Boot-top?

Oh yes, there is that important question of the skirt length. There seems to be a general feeling that skirts will be longer, about ten inches from the floor. Some say they should be at the top of the boot. But how can one determine that when many of us will be wearing oxfords?

For dress wear, black satin is always good. In fact, it now seems to have become an all-year-round material. Dress slippers, daintily strapped pumps, all the various styles for afternoon and evening wear are contrived of this stuff. Buckles of rhinestones and embroidery, and beaded effects will be used.

One of the novelties in black satin was a pretty strap pump with an unusual decoration. This was a fascinating fringe of dull gold narrow chains, each ending in a ball, across the instep. It was bound to the slipper with a row of amethysts.

Among the black slippers, patent leather will be worn. This is not a comfortable shoe in summer, but the cool days of fall will see many of them. A high-heeled pump of this leather showed an interesting wide-pointed band of self material, stitched with a white pattern across the instep.

Two other dress slippers boasted embroidery of stitching on their toes. One pair of black suede wore blue and tan prettily patterned, while another strap slipper of brown satin wore tan and brown.

And then there is that intensely intriguing matter of buckles. Some of them might be more appropriately called buttons, if such jeweled affairs would permit it. One dazzling round bit encircled a large jade stone with rhinestones. Others of brilliants made butterflies, true lovers' knots and crescents. Not quite so brilliant but very original is a round buckle of nail heads and cut steel beads. Wide square buckles come in cut steel and in gray and bronze.

Street shoes will cling to the good old military heel while dress slippers will continue to pirourette on the full Louis. The Junior Louis heel has its own admirers, and has come more and more into demand.

More Than One Pair

"There was an old woman who lived in a shoe," Mother Goose tells us. Well, she was fortunate. Nowadays, what is one shoe? Each time of the day demands its appropriate boot, so that one must be possessed of many pairs to be correctly dressed. Imagine living in one shoe!

Stag Party Planned by Glendale K. of P.

At the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias last night in Castle Hall, Brand boulevard and Park avenue, they decided upon September 20 as the date for a stag party. A great treat is planned for those who attend.

C. S. Nicholson and Edward S. Melzer have their teams lined up and there promises to be considerable rivalry as to which turns in the largest number of applications for memberships in a big drive just starting for the local lodge.

Attorney G. H. King, a recent arrival in Glendale from Port Angeles, Wash., was present last night and, after hearing the expressions of enthusiasm of other knights, he stated he wished to affiliate immediately with the local K. of P. lodge.

The Pythian Sisters meet Friday evening and on the night of September 9 the Knights are invited to Pasadena, when the Warren G. Harding page rank class will be put on. This spectacle will be worth seeing, but admission will be by password only, according to an official of the lodge.

'LITTLE SHOP' WILL OPEN

Tomorrow "The Little Shop" will open at 1021A South Brand boulevard. It will carry a full line of notions, some ready-to-wear goods and will be equipped to do high-grade hemstitching. It is being opened by Miss Harriett Bagg, who has lived in Glendale for the last seven years. She states that South Glendale has long needed a small store like this and believes that on account of its central location it will serve many people.

C. E. SOCIAL IS ENJOYED

The social given last night by the Glendale District Christian Endeavor societies proved a great success. It was held in the social hall of the Tropico Presbyterian church and there were members present of nearly every society in Glendale and Eagle Rock. The hall was prettily decorated in dahlias and asters. Mrs. C. C. Stoler, who was in charge of the games, provided plenty of entertainment for the young people.

Miss Nancy St. Clair and Miss Ethel Preston gave some most interesting talks on their trip to New York, where they attended the National Christian Endeavor convention. Several convention songs were sung. Later in the evening everyone "lined up" and refreshments of ice cream cones were served. This caused quite a bit of merriment.

DIVERSITY OF FUR BEING DISPLAYED IN SHOPS NOW

Wraps and Capes Prove Very Popular; Throw Is Used for Sport Wear

By MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

SO deeply has woman enjoyed the comfort and charm of rich furs that she refuses to limit them to a single season, that of winter. All year round she wears them now, thereby causing great consternation in the minds of the conservative, who are still gazing in wonder, and throwing up their hands in horror over the advent of the summer fur piece.

Now that autumn is with us again, and the first chill days bring a sharp nip to the air, the well-dressed woman turns to her furrier expectantly for new styles, new wraps, and is not disappointed. She finds prepared for her selection a diversity of coats and capes, so that each time of the day finds its own fur piece, whether milady journeys to the opera, takes the air up on the avenue, or spends a lively afternoon upon her skates.

For this fall, when she comes to make a selection, she will find some of the old favorites and some new furs. Not, of course, that any fur is new, but each season is sure to place special emphasis on some one fur. This year will see many wraps of caracul, Hudson seal, mink and marten will be worn and all the gray furs.

Spring brought in gray costumes, gray shoes, gray hats. And fall will follow with this pretty and universally becoming color in furs. Squirrel and mole will be foremost naturally, and all the furs that take a gray dye. Caracul will take gray as also red and white fox. The red fox dyes a deep blue, that resembles the expensive blue fox.

Your furrier will tell you that wraps and capes have it all their own way. One reason for the absence of the choker this fall is the presence of handsome fur collars on many of the new suits. For this reason throws will not be quite as popular as usual. Fox scarfs will be worn, however, in all of the favorite shades. Gray fox makes a beautifully soft neck piece as does the taupe. And red fox is attractive for some costumes, also the dyed blue fox.

For Sports Wear

One may mention one exception, and that is a throw for sports wear. With their usual cleverness the furriers have designed one or two garments for skating with a charm all their own. The throw especially is a long cozy affair,—gaily striped crossways with gray and white,—the gray of squirrel and the white of ermine. The white being gathered, the whole had an uneven shirred effect, ending with a lovely little ball of squirrel. A short jacket of gray and white was also designed for the skater.

Spanish Influence

Among the smaller capes the Spanish influence is traceable in points back and front. Seal is good and Jap marten. One of the seal capes was a cleverly designed affair with a straight band on each shoulder, about three inches in width. The back is loosely gathered onto each shoulder band, making a graceful drape. Each front is gathered onto the shoulder, making two points. And as a final touch each point ends in a ball. A Jap marten cape boasted a very pretty mitred back ending in a point below the waist line. Two points finished the front.

Some of the coats, unbelted, show a fullness in the skirts. Others are tight about the hem, being held together in the front, with a wrapped effect. Dolmans are good in the long coats, sometimes with sleeves, sometimes not.

One of the soft elegant wraps combines squirrel and seal. A cozy deep collar of squirrel would shelter one's very ears from the cold, while the cuffs show the same note of gray squirrel. The back is gracefully made with a deep yoke into which the skirt was gathered. Opera wraps of ermine are exquisite in their dainty whiteness. Summer ermine is seen, sometimes in combination with other furs.

A dolman cape made another beautiful wrap of mole and squirrel. The top was neither a cape nor a yoke, but combined both in dainty squirrel. To this the skirt of mole was gathered and slashed in front, so that one might slip one's arms through.

And this year, as if the charm of fur were not sufficient of itself, the designers must needs show their ability by combining wonderful fabrics for linings. Really one would want to alternate, one day wearing the coat fur side out and the next day turning it so that the lining shows. In fact, the well-known cloud with its silver lining has nothing on many of the new wraps.

Linings Are Important

One of these in a wonderful Chinese blue crepe de chine, was spotted with silver flowers woven into it, and not satisfied with that, it wore a deep band of cloth of silver all about its hem, elaborately embroidered.

A two-toned lining of putty brown grosgrain, with pipings of the putty made another interesting and durable lining. "Wallpaper" linings, they say, are not really good this fall.

Oh, yes, one must not forget the handsome dolman this two tone lining graced. It was deeply yoked of seal. Its rich collar was a soft mink while its cuffs showed mink with natural tails, about four on each cuff hanging free.

One of the novelties for the coming season is natural pony. Its delicate faun shade blends prettily with beaver. An excellent all-around utility coat combined these two furs, the collar deep and of handsome beaver.

There are so many pretty furs and they are made into such good looking styles, that they are worth the initial expense. For a comfortable fur coat will outwear a cloth one, and there are always the possibilities of remodeling.

And this, too, is sure. It is a rare woman to whom furs are not becoming. To be sure, she must carefully select her own particular style of garment and type of fur, but the result is bound to be satisfying. Her innate sense of appearing well dressed rejoices in the soft elegance of her apparel and so she will find herself a bit more sparkling, a bit more elated, a little more sure of herself. What more can be asked of mere clothing?

OLD BUGGY HIS COURT

A judge of Livingston, N. J., is on record as holding court from the seat of an old buggy. The case was that of a tenant who had disregarded notice to vacate property, so the buggy was drawn up within a short distance of the house in question and the trial proceeded.

Importance and Superiority of Chandler's Magneto Ignition

Chandler ignition is supplied by the Bosch High-Tension Magneto, as it has been always. Most high-priced American cars and all foreign cars are magneto equipped. The fastest racing records have been made by magneto-equipped cars. Nearly all airplanes and motor driven fire apparatus and nearly 100 per cent of all farm tractors have magneto equipment. The great majority of trucks are magneto equipped.

There is no question as to the marked superiority of magneto ignition. We could make a considerable saving by the use of a distributor system, which is called upon to start the starter, blow the horn, light the lights, charge the battery and furnish the ignition. The greater efficiency of magneto ignition more than compensates for our added expense.

The magneto gives the Chandler motor a hotter, fatter spark, igniting the gas quickly and completely, and its simplicity of wiring and absolute dependability, independent of any other unit, makes it the ideal ignition system.

Fall Hat Tips from the Manufacturers

IT CAN BE truthfully said that American men are becoming better dressed and more carefully groomed as a whole. Not effeminately so, as some are perhaps inclined to infer—for it's almost an impossibility to even imagine that of our virile, clear-eyed out-door youths who so valiantly represented our manhood in the trenches. But wholesomely trim and immaculate they are becoming.

It is true that most men's fashions originate in England, but they are interpreted and vested with an athletic individuality that is distinctly America's own.

Small Hats the Rule

Correct fall hat fashions display an even smaller tendency than has been heretofore observed. The manufacturers are producing shapes with plenty of roll to the brims.

Lighter colors than usual appear to be most approved. Quantities of grays are being sold in addition to the very popular tans and lighter shades of browns.

Soft fedoras are accorded the greatest favor as this shape is found to be best suited to the majority of men.

Fabric Hats Established

Fabric hats of two-toned mixtures and scratch effects, are such altogether comfortable and practical head-wear that their position is becoming more and more definitely established.

Nothing need be said about fine felts, as they are staple and indelibly identified with correctness.

Velours and beavers are coming in for more than their usual share of favor. This is due to the fact that these which are the aristocrats of soft hats, have been materially reduced in price and may be purchased at a reasonable cost for the fall season.

Derbies With Low Crowns

Derbies, too, must be considered, as they are inseparable from the heavy overcoats of the season. Following the general tendency of smallness, they display low flat crowns and narrow curled brims.

Hat bands are quite wide and are often of contrasting colors, offering a variety of distinctive effects. Although most hats wear their bow on the side, many are used in the back, both being approved.

Caps are full and generously fashioned. There is a jauntiness about them that makes up for what they may sacrifice to dressiness, and there is an appeal to a cap to which most men respond.

They are made of smart woolen fabrics. Some sporty patterns are very popular, including plaids, checks and solid colors.

Fur Caps Lower in Price

Fur caps have been reduced somewhat in price, but this fact does not appear to have increased their popularity. The ones shown are usually of Hudson seal and are somewhat larger and more capacious than in past seasons.

Boys' Clothes Reflect Men's Fashions for Fall

WHAT is it in clothes that appeals to the youth? Style—Quality—Service? No! To "Have 'em just like Daddy's"—that's it.

Not one iota of difference does the cut, or the tailoring, or the material make. But it's the imitative instinct, prompted by a brand of hero-worship that guides his preferences.

With this knowledge of boy nature in view, designers have followed the same style tendencies as in men's clothes, and very sturdy, manly little figures do they present. However, the interpretation is more liberal and less severe as a concession to the feminine influence that must be still considered at this age.

Few Style Changes

Lower waistlines, lower pockets and rolling lapels are noted as in men's suits, but patch pockets and in some instances belts are still retained. Double breasted models also are more popular than in men's garments. Norfolk jackets cannot be overlooked at the school boy age. Pleats and yokes are found in some of the favorite styles. These suits appeal to both the boy and his mother.

Trousers are in full knickerbocker style, a trifle longer and less baggy, to be secured just below the knee with a strap.

Fine grade flannels, tweeds, cheviots and worsteds are used in their fashioning. Blue serge, club checks and shepherd plaids are favored, and some extremely natty looking models are observed.

Ulsterettes Have Snap

Jaunty ulsterettes are offered for the school boy, too, fashioned of heavy materials such as are used for men's coats. Double-breasted models with patch pockets and belts provide exceedingly swagger and serviceable overcoats.

Raglan effects with set-in sleeves are also noted and are either generously pleated or full draped. Both the knee length and three-quarter models are approved.

The fabrics used are of the rougher textures, such as the unsheared weaves, coarse tweeds, Shetlands, Chinchillas, etc.

Juvenile Styles of Interest

Juvenile fashions have come in for a considerable share of attention in the last few seasons, and a variety of delightful little suits is the result.

Every mother knows that adorable stage when her baby boy is first introduced to suits with trousers and asserts his masculinity by demanding "pockets n'everything."

A charming model is the Junior Norfolk that is patterned after big brother's suit. They are box pleated either in the back or front or at the sides, with jaunty little belts. These suits button straight up the front through the neck, without lapels. Most straight trousers are displayed, although some with knickers are also shown.

Eton Norfolks Remain

Middy suits and Eton Norfolks also endear themselves to the proud parents' hearts and are liberally represented in Fall fashions for the little fellow.

A more dressy model is the Oliver Twist suit. Dark velvet or corduroy is combined with white or daintily tinted silk shirts.

Always appealing for the kiddie are the one-piece knitted suits with caps to match. They are both practical and cunning and the baby is well protected against all draughts in one of these.

Caps Are Preferred

Caps must be given precedence over hats as they appeal to the youngster as a college fashion. This school-boy preference is established and deserves encouragement for its suitableness and neatness, as a cap will withstand hard usage and retain its shape and color far better than a hat.

So varied and fanciful are the hat and cap fashions for the very little boy that it is almost impossible to enumerate the styles. If any are given preference they appear to be the first sailor and tam shapes.

Frank Marek Gets Up Tree; He Knows Now Just How It Feels

Frank Marek, superintendent of building and city forester, was "up a tree" Monday.

The crew he had at work felling the giant eucalypti at the triangle, San Fernando road and Brand boulevard, could not get their tackle on the lower limbs of one of the big trees.

They stood around and waited for the chief forester. When he arrived, it didn't take him long to decide what was to be done.

He peeled off his coat, shinned up the tree and tied the rope.

But yesterday and today he is feeling the effect of this violent form of exercise.

Saves Two Children From Serious Injury; Another One Is Hurt

The thrilling details of how Mrs. W. E. Palmer of North Glendale avenue saved two of her children from serious injury while a third, little Edna, had her right leg mangled under a 9000 pound truck, was told by Mr. Palmer to a representative of The Glendale Evening News.

Charles Carline, driver for Mr. Palmer, was returning the big dump truck to the Palmer place when he lost control of the machine and plunged toward the playing children.

Seeing the impending danger Mrs. Palmer threw Eugene and Earl out of the way, the latter landing in a box.

Little Edna is being operated upon today at a Los Angeles hospital to reduce the compound fracture. She has played in pictures and is widely known in Los Angeles.

VIEWS ON JAP QUESTION

'Dream Street' Will Be Shown on Thursday, Palace Grand Feature

"Dream Street" is the latest screen effort to come from D. W. Griffith. It is a tale of romance and love and laughter, symbolized with Good and Evil influences lending an enchantment rarely seen in such cinema productions. The ideas are Griffith while the characters are taken from two stories of Thomas Burke known as "Gina of Chinatown" and "The Sign of the Lamp." The locale is set in Limehouse, London.

A trinity of characters in the persons of a young girl, Gypsy Fair, "Spike" McFadden and his brother, "Billie" are the youthful creatures around which is woven a romance of dramatic love filled with poetic visions and governed by the Good and Evil influences of this world symbolized in two remarkable characters. They are Good, embodied by a street preacher and Evil portrayed by a street fiddler. They seem to set the mental directions of our little people flitting through this street of dreams and gaining a goal akin to paradise even on this earth.

"Dream Street" will be the attraction at the Palace Grand theatre beginning Thursday.

R. T. W. CLASS IN SESSION

The R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roy L. Kent, 522 North Central avenue. Mrs. M. L. Russell acted as president in the absence of Mrs. Duesberry, who was unable to be present on account of the illness of her little son, Donald.

Devotionals were led by the teacher of the class, Mrs. Jennie B. Doxsee. The afternoon was spent in sewing and in reminiscing of summer vacations. Many interesting kodak pictures were shown. Quite a large number of the members of the class are away on their vacations, but there were about twenty ladies present at yesterday's meeting. During the afternoon refreshments of ice cream and home made cake were served. A Christmas box containing many useful and dainty gifts has just been sent by the class to Miss Beulah Bassett, who is a missionary in West China.

PREPARING FOR CONTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Both the prosecution and defense in the case of William Hightower, accused of murdering the Rev. Father Patrick Heslin, settled down today to plan a hard court battle when Hightower goes to trial. Cards were laid on the table a bit at the habeas corpus proceedings in the appellate court. The proceedings showed Hightower had strong defense prepared with Attorney William Herron ready to fight spiritedly for his freedom.

As a result of what was shown, all hope of securing a confession from Hightower was abandoned today by District Attorney Swart of San Mateo county, who heads the prosecution. Hightower was in better spirits today than for many days.

"I'll not hang," he was quoted as saying in the Redwood city jail today. "I'll beat the rope." He was said to be plainly in fighting mood when Attorney Herron came to the jail during the morning to discuss plans for the defense.

C. OF C. WILL URGE 'FAIR PUBLICITY' IN L. A. PAPERS

Glendale Not Given Its Just Rights, Is View Taken by Director J. E. Smith

Why Glendale does not get credit where credit is due in the Los Angeles newspapers was brought before the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce here yesterday afternoon by Jesse E. Smith, first vice president. While his complaint was directed against several of the city papers, it was particularly pointed in reference to one daily, and a committee composed of Mr. Smith, Peter L. Ferry and W. E. Hewitt were appointed by President C. C. Cooper to wait upon its manager and impress upon him the fact that Glendale would appreciate recognition.

Two instances of news articles unfair to Glendale were cited by Mr. Smith, one being the capture of the Huntington Park bank bandit by local officers and the other the account of the La Canada school district voting to join Pasadena high school district. In other words, Pasadena gets publicity and Glendale does not—except that which is unfavorable or prejudiced, according to Mr. Smith.

Resolutions of Sympathy

Resolutions of respect were adopted in memory of John A. Schaeffer, a member of the American expeditionary forces who died in the Argonne, September 26, 1918. He will be buried here this week. The Chamber of Commerce will close during the funeral hour and a letter of condolence will be sent the mother who still resides in Glendale.

It was stated by Secretary James M. Rhoades that a petition now is being circulated in the Grand View district to obtain postal service through Glendale instead of Burbank.

Peter L. Ferry reported that the special committee on stopping more Southern Pacific passenger trains here had learned that seven out of twelve trains northbound and the same number southbound do not stop here at all.

A box of cigars was presented E. F. Sanders, assistant secretary, for obtaining 104 new members within three weeks.

Mr. Sharpe, who is planning on establishing a cereal coffee substitute manufactory here, presented each member of the board with a sample of the Moki. He gave an illuminative talk on the possibilities of the product.

TENSE STORY TOLD IN 'LURING LIPS' AT GLENDALE

Universal Action Drama Has Edith Roberts as Star; Situations Are Human

Edith Roberts in "Luring Lips," a Universal action drama, will be the attraction at the Glendale Theatre today and tomorrow. It is an intense story of a woman, who makes every known sacrifice to secure her husband's release from prison.

The situations in "Luring Lips" are human and logical. Adele Martin and her husband are on their honeymoon. Their life is a poem of happiness, until the law snatches her husband and sends him to prison. A shortage of $50,000 is discovered at the bank where the husband is employed.

Justice is misapplied, and on the gossamer web of circumstantial evidence, Martin is given a term in prison. The point driven home in this drama is the duty of a loyal wife in such a case. The law would easily grant a divorce. In a short time another man of wealth and position edged his way into her life. Adele Martin was human, and the one coveted treasure in her life was wealth and position. To all appearances her husband was a failure.

What the average woman would do under those circumstances is vividly portrayed. Other numbers complete the banner bill.

Oh, yes. The Glendale ushers are greeting the public in new Chinese costumes. Quite cute, too, you'll say.

A stirring picture of Hindu activity in British East India finely presented and splendidly acted, is "The Bronze Bell," a picturization of Louis Joseph Vance's notable novel, by Thomas H. Ince, which is being shown with great success at the Palace Grand. This is a Paramount picture of the finest grade and because of the dramatic interest of the story, its beauty and massiveness as a production evoked much admiring comment. The story deals with a rebellion against British authority which however, is an incidental feature merely, for a powerful love romance dominates the action.

Larry Semon batters up a dough shop in "The Bakery," a rollicking comedy, while "Pals and Petticoats" and Bray cartoons complete the comedy half of the bill.

Burton & Chandler In Their New Quarters

Burton & Chandler, real estate and insurance firm which has been located at 133 South Brand boulevard for the last three years, today moved to new quarters at 127 West Broadway where they will be pleasantly located in the new H. E. Noble building. J. W. M. Burton is one of the best versed men on property in Glendale, having come here when the Glendale & Montrose railroad was built. C. L. Chandler has been engaged in the real estate and insurance business for years here, being the owner of much property in southern California.

Mr. Powers was a native of Canada and had resided in Glendale just two months. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Myra Powers. Rev. Mason of the All Saints Episcopal church of Los Angeles will officiate at the funeral services.
